A dressing down from matron!

I TRAINED under Miss Jackson at Kettering General Hospital in 1948 and was proud to have done so and agree with Mrs Court her name should not be forgotten.

She was very strict about her nursing uniforms, white dresses and head and white lace up shoes.

I remember once I was not able to wear white lace up shoes so I had to wear buckle shoes, but Matron Jackson and I was summoned to her office for a reprimand.

Long live her name - she is a legend at Kettering General Hospital.

The picture is of myself, on the left, and my friend Joan Stevenson - both 18 years old.
