

GUYS IN A DIFFERENT GUISE

GUY FAWKES has stepped from the 17th century and appeared in his modern style — as Wombles Guy.

He also showed up as Guy the Swell, complete in evening dress with a carnation.

The Guys were two of the entrants for the Kettering General Hospital Guy Fawkes competition, held in the hospital recreation centre yesterday.

Four entrants, only half last year's number, came from wards and units of the hospital.

The Guys were judged by two young patients — 11-year-old Timothy Martin and nine-year-old Joanne McKay.

The winning entrant was Wellington the Wombles Guy, made by the children and nurses of Timson children's ward. They share a prize of chocolates.
